Dear Ms. Christie,

I was confused by your recent certified letter.

In your letter, you write, "Pursuant to agreement, Christie Communications, Inc requests mediation of the emerging defamation claim caused by your website."

No written or oral agreement exists with Christie Communications, Inc regarding the website christiecommunicationsucks.com.

The only written agreement between Christie Communications Inc. and Clean Air Gardening that I am aware of is a service contract in which Christie Communications was hired to provide public relations and marketing services for Clean Air Gardening.

The website christiecommunicationsucks.com is not mentioned anywhere in that service contract. That web site is a completely separate expression of my opinion about Christie Communications. Indeed, the website did not even exist until after you had already notified me in writing of the cancellation of the only contract between our two companies.

I would also like to point out that you incorrectly use the terms defamation and libel in your letter. Those terms refer to untrue statements.

If you believe any of the information on the website christiecommunicationsucks.com to be factually inaccurate, please provide specific examples for my review.

If I do not hear from you within 14 days of receipt of this letter regarding specific examples of factual inaccuracies on the website christiecommunicationsucks.com, I will consider that issue fully resolved.

If you intended to write in your letter that you seek mediation regarding the return of $12,500 that Clean Air Gardening paid Christie Communications, please send a new letter informing us of that request. We first contacted you on September 16, 2008 by email about mediating this issue, and you refused our attempt to arrange a mediation date with a Santa Barbara based mediator.

I have been trying to reach you by telephone for several weeks, unsuccessfully, regarding the return of this $12,500.

You are welcome to simply send a check if you do not wish to speak on the phone or mediate regarding this issue. If you are unable to afford payment in full, I will also accept installments over a period of 6 months.

Best regards,

Lars Hundley
